Description:

Managing behaviors with healthy and effective discipline will address the BEST ways to handle and cope with children and adolescents. Boundary setting with children and teens, as well as the most appropriate ways to teach self-control, and increased emotional regulation, as well as decrease negative behavioral challenges will be addressed. Looking at discipline through a holistic approach using healthy measures, logic, and love will provide a strong foundation for the continuous development of better relationships and behavioral and emotional outcomes with the kiddos in your care.
